

GETTING INVOLVED: OUR FAMILIES, OUR COMMUNITIES, OUR NATION

The theme of this years Hispanic Heritage Month is Getting Involved: Our Families, Our Communities, Our Nation. All across Connecticut and the U.S communities are celebrating Hispanic Heritage Month, the period set aside to recognize the contributions of Hispanic Americans to the United States and to celebrate Hispanic heritage and culture. The observance started in 1968 as Hispanic Heritage Week under President Lyndon Johnson and was expanded by President Ronald Reagan in 1988 to cover a 30-day period starting on September 15 and ending on October 15. It was enacted into law on August 17, 1988 on the approval of Public Law 100-402.

September 15 was chosen as the starting point for the celebration because it is the anniversary of independence of five Latin American countries: Costa Rica, El Salvador, Guatemala Honduras and Nicaragua. They all declared independence in 1821. In addition, Mexico and Chile and celebrate their independence days on September 26 and September 28, respectively." Public Law 100-402 authorizes and requests the President to issue an annual proclamation designating September 15 through October 15, as "Hispanic Heritage Month". This issue of CAUSA's newsletter highlights several of our member agencies' and how they engaged the community to get involved.

GETTING INVOLVED

Message from the Executive Director

This year's theme for Hispanic Heritage Month really hit the mark. Getting Involved: Our Families, Our Communities, Our Nation speaks directly to the need for us to stand together, roll up our sleeves and make things happen. The Hispanic community has so much to contribute. Now more than ever, Connecticut's diverse Hispanic people make a difference each day in shaping our future. Many of our member agencies make a special effort to recognize the economic, cultural, and social contributions of the Hispanic/Latino community. Read on to learn more about these celebrations.

One of the most fundamental ways to make a difference is to exercise the right to vote. Latinos are a growing proportion of the U.S. electorate, and our registration and voting rates are growing at a faster rate than those of other racial/ethnic groups. In the 2004 elections, about nine million Latino voters went to the polls; this year as many as ten million may turn out, signaling a need to address the concerns and goals of the 44 million Hispanics in the U.S.

Another way to get involved is to participate in activities, events and volunteer opportunities offered by CAUSA's member agencies, which are listed on the last page of the newsletter. To learn more about what they offer, you can link to the member agencies through CAUSA's website. Please visit our expanded website at www.causainc.org.

*Sincerely,
Carmen Sierra,

LATINAS & POWER SYMPOSIUM

The Latinas & Power Symposium attracted over 500 Latinas and Latinos from the Hartford metro area, New York City, Westchester and surrounding vicinities. Topics are designed to provide participants with hands-on techniques and strategies for success through specialized workshops for women at different stages of their lives.

This year, the event took place May 1st and 2nd at the Hartford Hilton Hotel.

Latinas & Power Symposium offers corporate sponsors a chance to showcase their products and services to the decision makers of the fastest growing group of consumers in the country. It also allows corporations to scout topnotch talent among the participants. Latinas & Power Symposium featured Ms. Julie Stav, an expert in the financial field who appears regularly on television talk shows, has her own radio program and is the author of a New York Times bestseller on the topic, as the keynote speaker for this event. Ms. Stav joins an impressive “who’s who” list of speakers and panelists who have riveted audiences with their rags to riches experiences and who now motivate others through their talks and example.

The luncheon speaker on May 2nd was the acclaimed motivational speaker, Ms. Deborah Deras, who is the co-founder of Odunton & Deras-Synergy Unlimited, a self-mastery company that uses the power of the mind to get at productivity challenges.

The event was sponsored by a number of companies. State Farm insurance was the lead sponsor. “This event inspires and motivates Latinas to realize their dreams. It brings together women from many walks of life under one roof for one power-packed day where they can hear from high achievers and connect with women with similar goals,” stated Ms. Diana Rael, Director of Multi-cultural Markets for State Farm. “We are proud to be the key sponsor for this event and that we have formed a true alliance with Ethnic Marketing Solutions, the producer of this event, to continue to grow this symposium into a national affair,” concluded Ms. Rael.

Grant Mastery Training

As part of CAUSA's training and technical assistance program for member agencies, and other Latino organizations in Connecticut, CAUSA offered a training program on how to master the art of grant writing. Grants are an important part of every nonprofit organization's ability to provide services to the community. Yet grants are quite intimidating for many people—in part because they are asked to "write proposals" without any training or previous experience.

This intensive, hands-on program covered all the basics of grant writing for foundation, corporate, state and federal funding opportunities. Participant learned how to conduct research on funding sources, plan and develop proposals for programs, operational support and capacity building. Also covered were the ins and outs of budget preparation, justification and sustainability. The funding landscape is increasingly competitive, and agencies are now required to include logic models, measureable outcomes and evaluation plans in their proposals. During the training, participants developed draft proposals, received feedback and technical assistance, and learned advanced techniques for formatting, visual presentation and management of electronic submissions.

The training was conducted by Eve Berry of SigniCor, LLC. Eve is one of the most experienced grant writers and trainers in the U.S.
